Ecclesiastical History, Yorkshire. After some dispute, Thomas contented Lanfrance with a verbal profession. (Hugh, Hist. Ch. York (Rolls Ser.), ii, 101). Lanfrance and Thomas went to Rome to receive the pall from Alexander II in 1071, Ordericus Vitalis, Hist. Eccl v, 2. For an account of their visit, and their controversy there, see Dixon and Raine, Fasti Ebor. 148, 149.). The dispute was renewed at the consecration of Anselm at Canterbury in 1093. Thoams refuse to consecrate until the words 'primatem totius Britanniae' were left out of Anselm's petition. A further source of controversy with Anselm was the consecration of Robert Bloett to the See of Lincoln.

Tickhill, Yorkshire. King Henry proceeded in person, early in 1102, against the more important stronghold of Bridgenorth, and entrusted the reduction of Tickhill to Robert Bloett, Bishop of Lincoln.

BLOET, ROBERT (d. 1123), English bishop, was chancellor to William I. and Rufus. From the latter he received the see of Lincoln (1093) in succession to Remigius. His private character was indifferent; but he administered his see with skill and prudence, built largely, and kept a magnificent household, which served as a training-school even for the sons of nobles. Bloet was active in assisting Henry I. during the rebellion of 1102, and became that monarch's justiciar. Latterly, however, he fell out of favour, and, although he had been very rich, was impoverished by the fines which the king extorted from him. Perhaps his wealth was his chief offence in the king's eyes; for he was in attendance on Henry when seized with his last illness. He was the patron of the chronicler Henry of Huntingdon, whom he advanced to an archdeaconry.

YEOVILTON, Somerton. Somerset. Ralph Bluet was tenant under the count of EU in 1086; (V. C. H. Som. i.

507.) the Bluets held land in Hampshire under the counts. (V. C. H. Hants, iv. 52-3.) William Bluet held a knight's fee in Yeovilton in 1284-85 as mesne tenant, and by 1303 was succeeded by John Bluet. (Feud Aids, iv 285 300). After John death c. 1317 the family's mesne tenancy seems to have disappeared.

Silchester Manor, Holdshot Hundred Hampshire. At the time of the Domesday Survey there were two estates in Silchester - one of 5 hides which Alestan had held of Edward the Confessor, and which was then in the possession of Ralph Bluet, who held of William de Ow, and the other assessed at 3 hides and forming part of the possessions of Ralph de Mortimer, whose predecessor Cheping had held it of Earl Harold as an alod Ralph de Mortimer's holding passed probably to the Bluets, and from this time there was but one manor of Silchester, the property of the Bluet family.

Returning, however, to the actual holders of the manor, another Ralph succeeded the Ralph Bluet of the Domesday Book, and was holding in 1167; and in 1204 Ralph Bluet, probably his son, gave a palfrey for license to inclose a park in his manor of Silchester. In 1228, Ralph granted half a virgate of land in Silchester to William de Waterschete, and he was still holding the manor in 1233, in which year the King ordered the sheriff of Hampshire to give seisin to Eleanor, Countess of Pembroke, of the land of Ralph Bluet in Silchester which was of her fee. John Bluet was the owner towards the end of the 13th century, accompanying his overlord, the Earl of Norfolk, on the king's service into Wales in 1287. He married Eleanor, the widow of William de Brianzon, in 1311, and the next year two-thirds of the manor were settled upon him and his wife in fee tail. He was returned as holding the vil of Silchester in 1316, but he had died before 17 January 1317, as is apparent from a patent roll of that date nominating William de Northo in his stead in a commission of oyer and terminer originally issued to William de Hardene and John Bluet. His widow Eleanor went on pilgrimage beyond the seas in 1321, but two years later was summoned to deliver up the bodies of her daughters Margaret and Eleanor - the co-heiresses of John Bluet - to William de Cusaunce, the King's clerk, to whom Thomas, Earl of Norfolk, and Aymer de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, overlords, had sold their marriage. Although she had petitioned the King for permission to keep her daughters with her by reason of their tender age, she was forced to comply with this order, and in 1327 sought consolation in a third marriage, in that year obtaining license to marry whom she would of the King's allegiance. William de Cusaunce gave Margaret in marriage to Sir William de Cusaunce, probably his nephew, while he bestowed the hand of Eleanor, the mother, had a life interest in the manor of Silchester. Sir William de Cusaunce, lord of Silchester, granted a lease of premises in that vil to Nicholas le Heir of Silchester, his wife and their sons, in 1342; and in 1346 Peter le Cusaunce, son and heir of William and Edmund Baynard were stated to be holding one Knight's fee in Silchester formerly belonging to John Bluet.

In Leicestershire, an early "Ralph Bloet" was seized of the Manor of Daglingworth, Temp-Henry II (approx. 1154); which King (Henry II) had a Natural son by the wife of Ralph. This son was named Morgan and was elected Bishop of Durham, but was denied a dispensation by the Pope, as the Canons required in case of Bastardy, because he persisted to own himself the King's son and not Bloet's son and so lost his Bishopric (Nichols Leicestershire).

Text: Dear Douglas Richardson, Gen-Med, I believe the 'Iorwerth ap Owain' you are seeking information on was none other than 'Iorwerth ap Owain Gwynedd', also known as 'Iorwerth Drwyndwn'. His association with Caerleon is that of conquest according to the Br Tywysogion [relevant text provided below]. He was the elder son and heir of Owain Gwynedd, king of Gwynedd or northern Wales (called 'prince' following submission to Henry II of England) until his death, 28 November 1170. Iorwerth was supplanted by his younger half-brother Dafydd ap Owain (d. 1194), who himself was later expelled by Llywelyn 'Fawr', son of Iorwerth.

Dafydd was married to Emma, illegitimate half-sister of Henry II. Given that Llywelyn was born say 1173, and that Dafydd (his uncle) was married to Henry II's sister, a relationship was most likely between a sister of Dafydd (half-sister of Iorwerth) or a much older sister of Llywelyn (and daughter of Iorwerth). The latter seems believable, in that Iorwerth had sons old enough to meet at Bristol in 1172 to discuss peace with the English. This should be yet another interesting addition to the Anglo-Welsh family tree. Keep up the great work! Best always, John Text: Don't know if this is of interest: From Henry II by W L Warren writing about the invasion of Ireland:.. First went Robert FitzStephen, son of and of Nest, daughter of Rhys ap Tewdwr, former mistress of King Henry I, as promiscuous as she was reputedly beautiful, and mother of a vast progeny of Norman-Welsh half breeds. He [Dermot MacMurrough, king of Leinster] gathered together a small group which was virtually a family party of Nest's descendants: his half-brother Maurice FitzGerald, with his sons and nephews, the Barry brothers and the Cogans, and his brother-in-law Hervey de Montmaurice... They went over [to Ireland] in 1169 and were joined a year or so later by a more notable figure from the Welsh March - Richard [aka Strongbow] son of Gilbert de Clare, 1st Earl of Pembroke. ...The historian Gerald of Wales was himself a grandson of Nest being one of the Barry brothers.regards, Adrian.

Nichol wrote; I'm interested in compiling a list of the many, many children of Nest verch Rhys ap Tewdr, Princess of South Wales, that is as accurate as possible. Evidently a beautiful and fertile woman, Nest is perhaps best known as the "Helen of Wales" after being abducted by her kinsman, Owain ap Cadwgan (in 1109, if IRC). She was married to a Norman, Gerald FitzWalter de Windsor, and had many lovers, the notable among them being King Henry I of England; Stephen, Constable of Cardigan Castle; and the aforementioned Owain. Of her children, I have the following: 1. [By Gerald] William de Carew, died 1173. (CP) (DNB) (BDEP) 2. [By Gerald] Maurice FitzGerald, Lord of Lanstephen, died 1177. (CP) (DNB) 3. History of the E³ghanacht Kingdom of Munster

From the "Historical Essays on the Kingdom of Munster"

by The MacCarthy M³r, Prince of Desmond

Thus, in 1217, Henry III of England recognized the existence of Dermot II of Desmond (1207-1229) in an order commanding Thomas de Bloet to pay a dowry for his sister, Petronilla, wife of "Dermot Magarthy, Rege de Corke." [17] It is true that there was no consistency in this policy and, on occasion, the kings of Desmond were styled as Dukes in letters from the English kings.

The Battle of Callann, A.D. 1261

By Diarmuid A Murchadha

The Geraldines were the most prominent of the Norman families of the invasion period and it was inevitable that they should take an interest in the disposing of Desmond. The Irish Pipe Roll of the 14th year of King John³⁴ (1212-1213 A.D.) lists as owing services for the kingdom of Cork, firstly, Thomas Bloet (who the previous year had married the grand-daughter of Milo de Cogan and paid 500 marks for Milo's inheritance) and, secondly, Thomas fitz Maurice (of Shanid) whose claim must have rested on his kinship to Raymond le Gros, who was, according to Giraldus, fitz Stephen's heir. The claim was not a strong one, and it was by another means that the Geraldines got their foothold in Desmond. On 3 July 1215, King John granted to Thomas fitz Anthony (the earl marshall's seneschal in Leinster) the guardianship (custodia) of Decies and Desmond with all the escheats therein. He also granted him the custody of the lands and heir of Thomas fitz Maurice, as well as the marriage of the heir (i.e. John fitz Thomas) whom we later find, not surprisingly, married to one of fitz Anthony's daughters. As fitz Anthony had no son, his inheritance descended to his five daughters, one of whom died unmarried, while the four others had as husbands Gerald de Rupe (head of the Roches), Geoffrey de Norrach, Stephen de Archedecne, and John fitz Thomas.

Almaric served the office of sheriff of Rutland in the 34th Henry II (1187), and again in the 1st Richard I (1189). From the later monarch, to whom he was also steward, he obtained a confirmation in fee of the lordship of Wurdie and Stanley, in the vale of Gloucester. The former of which King Henry II had given to Walter, the usher of his chamber, son of Thurstan, and uncle of this Almaric, for his homage and service, reserving a pair of gilt spurs, or twelve pence, to be yearly paid for the same into the exchequer. In the 6th of King John this Almaric paid a fine of 120 marks and one palfrey to be exempted from attending upon the king in an expedition then proposed to be made beyond the sea. Almaric married twice 1st to Alda Bluet and 2nd to Amabil de Chesnei, daughter of Walter de Chesnei.

He [Geoffrey de Lucy] married, in 1207, Juliane, widow of Piers DE STOKES, steward to King John (dead s.p. by August 1206), and daughter of Aymer LE DESPENSER, by Amabel or Maud, daughter and coheir of Walter DE CHESNEY, by Eve DE BROC (j), daughter and heir of Eustace. She was living in 1227. He died in 1234. [Complete Peerage VIII:257-8, XIV:457, (transcribed by Dave Utzinger)]

Sir Adam le Despenser (b), of King's Stanley and Leckhampton, co. Gloucester, Rollright and Ewelme, Oxon, Oldberrow, co. Worcester, Barrow-on-Humber, co. Lincoln, and Burgham, Surrey, son and heir of Sir Thurstan le Despenser, of Stanley, Leckhampton, etc. (who d. shortly bef. 3 Sep 1249) (c). [Complete Peerage IV:287 (only 1st part of citation)]

(b) This family of Despenser took their name from the office of Dispensator Regis. In an Assize Roll of date 1231 it is stated that "Thurstanus Despenser tenet centum solidatas terre per serjantiam quod sit dispensator domini Regis."

(c) Thurstan had a confirmation of King's Worthy, Hants, and King's Stanley, co. Gloucester, 3 Feb 1228/9, and was son and heir of Aymer, Dispensator Regis, by his 2nd wife, Alda Bloet. Aymer had m., 1stly, before Tuesday before St. Margaret, 15 July 1186, Amabel (who had Dallington, Northants, in free marriage), daughter and coheir of Walter de Chesney, by Eve, daughter and heir of Eustace de Broc. By Amabel (called Maud in the Nete Book) he had a daughter and heir, Julian, who m. 1stly William Bardolf, 2ndly Piers de Stokes (who dsp), and 3rdly Geoffrey de Lucy, to whom she brought the manor of Dallington. Aymer had a confirmation of Worthy and Stanley, 24 Apr 1204, and was brother and heir of Walter, Dispensator Regis (son and heir of Thurstan), to whom Henry II granted the lands of Worthy and Stanley for his homage and service, rendering therefore a pair of gilt spurs or 12d. a year, to hold by the service of 1/2 a knight's fee. The last-named Thurstan was son of Simon son of Thurstan, or Turstin, Dispensator to William II. [Complete Peerage IV:287 note (c), corrected by XIV:257]

History of the Eaghanacht Kingdom of Munster
From the "Historical Essays on the Kingdom of Munster"
by The MacCarthy MÃ³r, Prince of Desmond

Thus, in 1217, Henry III of England recognized the existence of Dermot II of Desmond (1207-1229) in an order commanding Thomas de Bloet to pay a dowry for his sister, Petronilla, wife of "Dermot Magarthy, Rege de Corke." [17] It is true that there was no consistency in this policy and, on occasion, the kings of Desmond were styled as Dukes in letters from the English kings.

Irish History
CHAPTER 10
THE ORIGIN AND PURPOSE OF THE PENAL LAWS

The seed of MacCarthy More, King of Cork, and of Petronella de Bloet, passed into the House of Stuart and fructified in the person of James VI of Scotland, James I of England. (He was the son of Mary Queen of Scots, who was crowned Queen of Scotland as a child.) As generation succeeded generation, all the Irish clans were united in ties of blood with all the Norman families.

William Blewett, Earl of Salisbury (not proven). Abt 1220, but the 5th Generation of Bluetts found to be living at Holcomb Rogus, on the Blackdown hills, Devon, the Lord of the Manor passed to Thomas Blewett. Sir John Blewett acquired Holcomb Rogus, Devonshire by marriage to Maud Chisellen (Clusleden, Chiseldon) dau. of John Clusleden. In 1444 the Chronicler records that John Blewett, of Holcomb Rogus, held the Office of High Sheriff of the county Devon, and Hals' writing, about 1680, says that he was also High Sheriff of Cornwall in 26 Henry VI (i.e. 1448). John's great-grandson, Richard, married Mary, daughter of Sir Thomas Grenville. They had a son named Francis, who about 1540, who came/went to Cornwall to court and marry Elizabeth, daughter of Tristram de Colan, of Colan, near St Columb Minor, with her sister Anne, co-heiresses of the de Colans who were listed as land owners in Colan Parish in Edward II's feudary of 1347.

1188 - Receives the estate of Appleby, Lincolnshire. 1220 - Earl of Salisbury? The family long remained of eminence in the West of England and Cole of Earl of Saram or Salisbury. This is purely gratuitous assumption, as there is no record. Upon his death Henry II passed the Appleby estate to William Longespee.

Some sources claim that he was the Earl of Salisbury, but this has not been proven.

Pithouse Worcestershire. (12th Century) An estate at Knightwick afterwards called PITHOUSE was apparently held of the Despensers, for Thurstan Despenser and Alda (Elizabeth) Bluet his mother confirmed a grant of the estate to the Prior and convent of Little Malvern, and apparently thereby renounced their overlordship, as nothing further is heard of it.

Thurstan, who appears with his brother to have taken arms with the other barons against King John, for in the 18th of that reign (1216), the king committed the custody of Thurstan le de Spencer to Rowland Bloet, and gave away the lands of Almaric to Osbert Giffard, his own natural son. Thurstan seems however to have regained his rank in the next reign, and to have twice served the Office of Sheriff for Gloucestershire. He died in 1248.

KNEPP Castle, Bramber Rape: West Grinstead Hundred, Sussex. In 1210 and between 1214 and 1216 the castle was in the keeping of Rowland Bluet. (Rot. Litt. Claus. (Rec. Com.), 155?6; Rot. Litt. Pat. (Rec. Com), 157, 187.) In May 1215 he was ordered to transfer his forces to Bramber and to destroy Knepp, (Rot. Litt. Pat. (Rec. Com), 137, V.C.H. Suss. i. 493) but he evidently did not do so, for four days later he was directed to receive William de Warenne, Earl of Surrey, there or at Bramber, and in the following October to deliver the castle to Giles de Braose, Bishop of Hereford. In 1216 it was again ordered to be burnt and destroyed; the use of the first verb perhaps indicates that its structure was then largely of wood. On that occasion its fortifications may have been demolished: the grant of safe-conduct later in the same year to Bloet's men may suggest that it could no longer be held.

He married ALICE BASSET in Westlecott, Wiltshire, England. She was born in Westlecott, Wiltshire, England.

Notes for GEOFFREY 'BLUET' BLEWETT:

Westlecott. Elstub and Everleigh Hundred, Wiltshire, As part of the barony of Castle Combe Sat and the Abbot of Stanley, most of whose land, however, lay in the neighbouring parish of Lys settled on Peter and Lucy for Life with remainder to William Everard and his wife Beatrice. Leaving no heirs.

Castle Combe Salthrop, Elstub and Everleigh Hundred, Wiltshire. As part of the barony of Castle Combe Salthrop, reckoned a single fee, was held in 1242?3 by Geoffrey Bluet. (Bk. of Fees, ii. 726.) In 1275 the fee was said to be divided between Robert Bluet and the abbot of Stanley, most of whose land, however, lay in the neighbouring parish of Lydiard Tregoze. In 1281 Salthrop was settled on Peter Bluet and his wife Lucy. (Rot Hund p 80) In 1311 it was settled on Peter and Lucy for life with remainder to William Everard and his wife Beatrice Bluet. Peter was dead in 1329 but Lucy lived until 1337. She was succeeded by William Everard. William died in 1343. His son Sir Edmund Everard, died in 1370 holding the manor jointly with his wife Felice and leaving as heirs his sisters Elizabeth, wife of Robert of London, and Margaret, widow of Thomas of Ramsbury.

Westlecott, Wiltshire. In 1224/5 John son of Simmon was at variance with Geoffrey Bluett and Alice his wife over half the manor. (E 372/69 m. 7d). John is to be identified with John of Fifhide who in 1228 renounced his right in half the manner to Geoffrey, who was to hold it of Alan Basset. Geoffrey Bluet still held the moiety in 1242?3. (Bk of Fees ii 731). In 1281, like Salthrop manor, it was settled on Peter Bluet and his wife Lucy, (Feet of F. 1272-1327 (W.R.S. i), p. 13), and from that date the two estates passed in the same way.

Faris (1999, p. 23): [quote] JAMES DE BERKELEY, Knt., Lord Berkeley, was born at Raglan, co. Monmouth, about 1394. He was nephew and heir male of Thomas de Berkeley, Lord Berkeley. He succeeded to the Castle of Berkeley and other estates under an entail of his great-grandfather, but was much hindered in getting possession thereof by the heir general, his cousin the Countess of Warwick. He was summoned to Parliament 1421-1461. He was married (or contracted to marry) aged sixteen to _____ SAINT JOHN, daughter of John Saint John. She died young s.p.. He was married for the second time to _____ STAFFORD, daughter of Humphrey Stafford, Knt., of Hook, Dorset. She died young s.p. He was married for the third time in 1423/4 to ISABEL MOWBRAY, widow (with one daughter) of HENRY FERRERS, Knt. (died shortly before 5 Dec. 1463 s.p.m., v.p.) [see GREY 8 for descendants of this marriage], and first daughter and in her issue co-heiress of Thomas de Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk (descendant of King Edward I), by Elizabeth (descendant of King Edward I), daughter of Richard Fitz Alan, Earl of Arundel and Surrey [see MOWBRAY 9 for her ancestry]. She was, while about to appeal to the King in Council on behalf of her husband, arrested by order of Margaret, Countess of Shrewsbury (granddaughter and co-heiress of the last Lord Berkeley, and step-mother of James de Berkeley's fourth wife), and imprisoned at Gloucester, where she died on 23 Sep. 1452, and was buried at Grey Friars there. James de Berkeley was married for the fourth time, with settlement dated 25 July 1457, to JOAN TALBOT, daughter of John Talbot, 1st Earl of Shrewsbury, by his first wife Maud, daughter of Thomas Neville, Lord Furnival. JAMES DE BERKELEY, Lord Berkeley, died at Berkeley Castle in November 1463, and was buried at Berkeley. His widow was married for the second time before 26 May 1474 to Edmund Hungerford.

Pleas before the king in Chancery at Westminster on the morrow of the Ascension, 40 Edward III (1367).

York. The findings of the contradictory inquisition in co. Cumberland are quoted.

Thomas Bowet (Blouet), by Thomas de Thellewall, clerk, his attorney, says for himself and the king that the manor is held of the heir of the heir of William de Greystok, as in the first inquisition, and demands that enquiry be made of the county; and Thomas son of Thomas Ughtred says that the manor is held of him, and not of the heirs of William de Greystok. Therefore a day is given them in the quindene of Trinity next, before the king.

William Blewett, Earl of Salisbury. Abt 1220, but the 5th Generation of Bluetts found to be living at Holcomb Rogus, on Blackdown hills, Devon, the Lord of the Manor passed to Thomas Blewett. Sir John Blewett acquired Holcomb Rogus, Devonshire by marriage to Maud Chisellen (Clusleden, Chiseldon) dau. John Clusleden. In 1444 the Chronicler records that John Blewett, of Holcomb Rogus, held the Office of High Sheriff of the county Devon, and Hals' writing, about 1680, says that he was also High sheriff of Cornwall in 26 Henry VI (i.e. 1448). John's great-grandson, Richard, married Mary, daughter of Sir Thomas Greenville. They had a son named Francis, who about 1540, who came/went to Cornwall to court and marry Elizabeth, daughter of Tristram deColan, of Colan, near St Columb Minor, with her sister Anne, co-heiresses of the deColans who were listed as land owners in Colan Parish in Edward II's feudary of 1347.

Sir Walter Blewett, Knight, son and heir of Sir Walter and Christian (Greenham) Blewett, membs a daughter of Sir John Trivet, Knight. Died ca. 1397. Farringdom, Cannington, Somerset. Raymond Trivet was named as lord with Walter Bluett in 1346 on, possibly in trust for sale, since the Bluets had sole interest there by 1428. (S.R.S. xvt and Christian of Greenham. Walter may still have been under aged when Simon Furneaux was d, DD/SF 1453/5). John alive in 1428 but dead by 1431 when the manor was held by his widoath of John Bluet in 1634. (Below, N. Petherton, Manors: P.R.O., C 142/475. no 105.) John, the estate was therefore shared so that Anne and Mary each had one third share as under thd as half the manor, by 1674 had passed to John Selleck, Archdeacon of Bath (d. 1690), and frird in 1677.

Sir John Blewett, Esq. and Lord of Ragland, son and heir of Sir Walter and Ellen (Malet) Bler of Sir Stephen De La Mere, Knight. John died ca. 1431, Farringdon, Cannington, Somerset. Raymond Trivet was named as Lord with Walter Bluet in 1346, on possibly in trust sale, since the Bluets had sole interest there by 1428. (S.R.S. xvt and Charistian of Greenham. Walter may still have been under aged when Simon Furneaux was d, DD/SF 1453-5). John was alive in 1428 by dead by 1431 when the manor was held his widow of John Bluet in 1634. (Belwo, N. Petherton, manors: P.R.O., C 142/475. no 105.) John. The estate was therefore shared so that Anne and Mary each had one third share as under thd as half the minor, by 1674 had passed to John Selleck, archdeacon of Bath (d. 1690), and frd in 1677.

William de hoton Johan.

Writ, 2 Mar., 36 Edward III (1363).

Cumberland. Inq. taken at Penreth, 6 May, 36 Edward III (1363).

Hoton Johan. The manor (extent given), held for life by gift of William Bowet (Blouet), late person of the church of Dacre, and Thomas de Perishou, with remainder to Edmund his son, who survives, and his heirs. The manor is held of the heir of William late baron of Creistok, a minor in the king's wardship, by homage and fealty and the service of 20s. 8d. yearly at the Assumption of cornage, and by suit to the baron's court of Creystok every three weeks, and by a service called 'witnessman' and for food (putura) of the baron's foresters of Flaschowe.

He held no other lands &c. in the bailwick, as the jurors understand.

He died on Friday before the Purification last. The aforesaid Edmund his son, aged 30 years and more, is his heir. C. Edw. III. File 171. (3).

Robert Bluett s. of Richard Blewett & Elizabeth Arundell
1652-born second? Son and heir to his distant cousin, John Blewett of Holcombe Rogus Devon, by will 1700, teste a memorandum made on a deed in the possession of John Blewett of Paignton.
1675-merchant in London, traded with Canary Isles. (existence of business letters with John Overholt).
1699-sold his moiety of the manor of Colan and other property to Robert Hoblyn of Nanswhyden, rector of Ludgvan, whose will dated Jan 13th 1701 was proved in the prerogative Court of Canterbury on 4th May 1706. In Michaelmas Term II, William III, on Robert Bluett Esq and Kerrenhapuch, his wife, levied a fine of 1 messuage, 1 water cornmill, 10 acres of land, 2 acres of meadow, 11s 4d rent, and the moiety of Colan, also the moiety of 200 acres of land, 20 acres of meadow, 100 acres of pasture, and 140 acres of furze and heath in Colan, Colcombe Major, Colcombe Minor, St Issey, St Enodor, St Wenn, Tregory and Crantock, to Robert Hoblyn, clerk, by which the aforesaid premises were assumed to the said Robert Hoblyn and his heirs for ever.
1706-digest of a note written on deed of 1599 by Robert states that:
Francis & Elizabeth did have a horde of children and the eldest was named Colan. He died childless in 1593 and named his brother John, the 10th son as his heir. (It is assumed therefore that brothers 2-9 either predeceased Colan or had no sons, or both). The Rev John, by wife (1) had a son Colan, and by wife (2) a son Francis. Colan then had 4 daughters & 6 sons.
The sons were Colan, Valentine, John, Richard, Samuel, & Robert. John, Samuel & Robert did not marry, and only Richard had children. Colan passed the estate to his brother Valentine who in turn passed it to his brother's son Robert.
1725-died aged 72. From the memorial in Holcombe Rogus Church (Bluett Chapel).
"ROBERT BLEWETT Esq., formerly of Little Colan Cornwall afterwards of Holcombe Court, and Kerrenhappuch his wife, daughter of Robert Wood L.L.D. of Shenville in Essex, who had two daughters named Martha who died young, and three sons and five daughters who survived their father viz....".
